

LEVEL 1 ACTING WORKSHOP October 2010

Saturday the 30th and Sunday the 31st of October 2010

“The actor should be able to create the universe in the palm of his hand.”

Sir Laurence Olivier (English actor, producer and film director 1907-1989)

Are you interested in acting on the stage, in television commercials or in film?

Perhaps you have always wanted to try your hand at acting and didn't know where to begin, or you have completed one of the Lizzie Wagner Academy courses or workshops and wish to gain further skills in acting.

Whoever you are... whatever age, height, or size and for whatever reason—be it a desire to perform, obtain work within the industry, upgrade your skills or simply elevate your self-esteem and confidence—we have a great program for you!

Due to our many requests from students and clients—and because of our great success with student models/actors such as Kylie Watson (who previously played Shauna Bradley on Home and Away) and Lara Cox (who previously played Anita on Heartbreak High and recently completed a pilot with David E Kelly, producer of Ally McBeal and The Practice) AND because many of our students appear in national television and print ad campaigns, film and stage productions, the Academy has decided to do a special weekend workshop on 30th and 31st of October 2010.

In this workshop we will cover....

Basic acting skills	Preparing for an audition
Removing amateur qualities	TV commercial preparation
Nonverbal communication	'The Cold Read'
Warming up the body and voice	Reading body language
What the director expects from you	Improvisation skills
Finding that 'star' quality	Script reading
Preparing an actor for stage	Acting for the camera
Body and voice work	Relaxation
Preparing your CV	and much more....

Diplomas will be issued on completion of this course. Teens and adults who are relatively new to performance and who want to be considered for acting work by The Lizzie Wagner Academy should attend.
